Conserving and Expanding Natural Habitats

The 'perfect safari' means something different to everyone.

For some it means stunning accommodation in a remote, private concession with as many wildlife-drives as you can fit into a day. For others it is being out on foot or in a canoe, active all day and totally disconnected from the world back home.

For some, it is capturing the perfect photograph of one of Africa's iconic species, for others it means spotting every bird or introducing their children to the bush for the first time with our Young Explorers Programme. Whatever your interests or travel style there is a Great Plains Conservation experience perfect for you.

Great Plains has two grading levels for their camps.

Great Plains Réserve Collection, is the highest level. These all-suite camps offer exceptional wine selections from private estates, executive chefs, professional cameras, high-quality binoculars in vehicles, and everything you would expect from an ultra-luxury safari experience.

Botswana

Botswana is a country of diverse beauty, outstanding wildlife and offers an array of landscapes found nowhere else on earth and uniquely adapted flora and fauna. From the channels of the Okavango Delta, the world's only inland delta, to the banks of the Selinda Spillway teeming with elephants. This varied landscape also lends itself to various safaris to experience the country, from wildlife drives to guided bush walks to canoes and boating, all of which are available when staying with Great Plains Conservation.

Botswana is a country for travellers who value remoteness and exclusivity, with vast tracts of pristine wilderness home to healthy wildlife populations and an often explosive mix of predator and prey. Great Plains Conservation's camps in Botswana epitomise the wonder that the country has to offer. We have several camps and safari in Botswana experiences spread across almost 400,000 private, conserved land acres, some of which communities lease to us. More than a decade ago, some areas were former hunting concessions converted and protected by Great Plains Conservation.

During the dry season (May to October), game viewing is impressive with sightings of lion, leopard, wild dog, large herds of elephant and buffalo, the unique Thornicroft's giraffe, Cookson's wildebeest, Crawshay's zebra, and incredible birds, to name just a few.

Lion Camp is independent and individual. The main lodge is linked to 10 suites by elevated wooden walkways. It offers the unique experience of an unfenced lodge, stretching along the side of a tranquil oxbow stream, where game and birds are plentiful, all year round.

In the absence of fences, game moves freely through the camp. SUN AFRICA EXPEDITIONS

Expertly tailored Safaris in Uganda and beyond...

Uganda, in an ecological nutshell, is where the Eastern Savannah meets the West African jungle – and it really does offer visitors the best of both these fantastic worlds. In no other African destination can one see a comparable variety of primates with so little effort- not just the great apes, but also more than ten monkey species, as well as the tiny wide-eyed bush baby and peculiar potto.

If you've ever wanted to sit with mountain gorillas in their natural rainforest habitat, then a Uganda safari will deliver on your expectations. Boasting a 99% success rate at finding habituated gorilla family groups in the extraordinary Bwindi Impenetrable Forest and Mgahinga National Park, Gorilla trekking in Uganda has become one of Africa's most powerful wildlife experiences and such is its success that the gorilla population is actually increasing.

But don't think that a Uganda safari is only about gorillas in rainforests: this landlocked East African country is home to a range of diverse national parks. Head for Murchison Falls National Park, Queen Elizabeth National Park, Kidepo National Park, Lake Mburo National Park or Kibale National Park for classic big game viewing, chimpanzee trekking and river cruises.

Uganda is by far the smallest of the four African countries in which more than 1,000 bird species have been recorded, and it is particularly rich in Western rainforest specialists – in practical terms, undoubtedly the finest bird watching destination in Africa.

A green, hilly and elevated country with many lakes and mountains, Uganda's appeal lies in its simplicity. There is an excellent range of safari accommodation and city-based hotels. Ideal for seasoned safari-goers, bird watchers and wildlife enthusiasts and you can easily combine Uganda with Kenya, Rwanda or Tanzania for a holistic East African safari experience.
